Anyone can talk about respect for the environment. Cosentino lives it. In every step of production, from natural stone extraction to transportation to manufacturing to installation, we're committed to respect and protect our environment. We're constantly investing in new technologies that reduce emissions and maximize recycling. We devote significant resources to creating systems that ensure environmental sustainability. We've worked to become leaders in environmental responsibility. That means our products do more than meet industry requirements; they meet the expectations of a conscientious society.
